1. Executive Summary

During the period April-September 2020, project efforts were directed towards developing a scalable site of learning to improve livelihoods and build resilience through integrated watershed management in 10 villages of Jaipatna block, Kalahandi district, Odisha. It covers an area of around 2500 ha and is home to around 8500 people. The major focus has been on developing rainwater conservation structures, demonstrating the benefits of improved crop varieties and need-based nutrient management, planting fruit plants on marginal lands and the promotion of nutri-gardens for women farmers. During the reporting period, a total of 32 farm ponds were constructed across 7 villages of the watershed. Seventeen demonstrations were conducted to promote micronutrient fertilizers. Demonstrations on improved varieties of pigeonpea (Laxmi and PRG 176) were implemented with 142 farmers. To enhance system productivity, around 6440 mango saplings of Amrapali and Dasherri varieties were distributed to 690 farmers. Similarly, 180 women farmers were supported to establish small nutri-gardens. Formal/informal capacity building of farmers in the watershed for promoted technologies is building their skills to enable sustained and higher productivity and better livelihoods. To disseminate information on the ongoing watershed works, an article 'Drought prone landscape turns green' (<https://www.icrisat.org/drought-prone-landscape-turns-green/>) was published in ICRISAT's newsletter Happenings (31 July 2020). In spite of the challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic, the watershed works have progressed safely and as per the schedule.

2. Background

The watershed, covering an area of around 2500 ha, is located in Jaipatna block of Kalahandi district and comprises 10 villages (Gandaguda, Kapurmal, Karanjiguda, Kotpadi, Kuhuriguma, Mukhiguda, Mundraguda, Patiguda, Pipalguda and Ranibahal). It is home to around 8500 people.

The specific objectives of the watershed project were to:

1. Establish "Model Sites of Learning" in Kalahandi district of Odisha to harness the potential of rainfed areas by adopting an integrated water resource management approach;
2. Demonstrate and popularize science-based integrated and efficient soil, water and climate smart crop management practices to enhance crop productivity and improve rural livelihoods in the targeted villages;
3. Develop the capacity of farmers in the region through farmer-friendly knowledge sharing and dissemination to enhance their awareness about climate smart water efficient and nutritious cereals and vegetables for cultivating and their integration into diets.
4. Improve nutrition levels, especially of women and children, through the consumption of more millets and vegetables.

In line with these objectives, the major focus during the reporting period has been on developing rainwater conservation structures, demonstrating the benefits of improved crop varieties and need-based nutrient management, planting fruit trees on marginal lands and the promotion of nutri-gardens among women farmers.

3. Rainwater Conservation and Management

A total of 32 farm ponds were constructed across 7 villages of the watershed (Table 1 and Figures 1-15). The storage capacity of each pond is around 200 m<sup>3</sup> (10 m x 10 m x 2.5 m). The ponds were cement lined to check percolation losses and fenced for safety. For farmer-wise details, see Annexure 1.

4. Participatory R&D Trials/Demonstrations on Integrated Nutrient Management/Integrated Pest Management (INM/IPM)

Based on soil analysis results, demonstrations were conducted in five villages to promote micronutrient fertilizers of which we noticed deficiencies. These were conducted with 17 farmers, who were each provided 10 kg zinc sulphate to cover 1 acre (Table 2). For farmer-wise details of demonstrations, see Annexure 2.

6. High Value Crop and System Productivity Enhancement

To enhance system productivity of the watershed, mango fruit plantations were promoted. Amrapali and Dasherri varieties of mangoes were distributed to 690 farmers (Table 4 and Figure 17). Around 6440 mango saplings were planted by the farmers. For farmer-wise details of the mango saplings distributed, see Annexure 4.

8. Capacity Building

Capacity building is at the core of watershed interventions, done through formal/informal trainings and field days. Regular formal/informal meetings/trainings by one ICRISAT field staff and 2 NGO staff with technical support from a team of scientists at ICRISAT headquarters were part of the watershed program to enable proper implementation of technologies.

9. Communication & Dissemination

For wider dissemination, the ongoing watershed works were published in ICRISAT's newsletter Happenings (31 July 2020) through an article called 'Drought prone landscape turns green' (<https://www.icrisat.org/drought-prone-landscape-turns-green/>). The article highlighted the Power Grid Corporation of India Limited's commitment to CSR and activities like rainwater management, soil rejuvenation, improved cropping management, empowering women and enhancing overall system productivity (Figure 18).

Drought-prone landscape turns green

Farm ponds, revived soils and improved crop varieties lead to a more productive rural Odisha

Farmer Pabitra Majhi's farm in Ranibahal village, Kalahandi district, Odisha.

Kalahandi district in Odisha, India, has suffered from repeated droughts and famines for several decades, causing great hardships to the local farmers. A holistic intervention is helping 8,500 farmers in 10 villages boost farm yields by increasing water availability, enhancing soil fertility and providing improved crop varieties. A total of 32 farm ponds have alleviated water scarcity in the area. A yield increase of up to 50% was seen due to these collaborative efforts with the Power Grid Corporation Limited in this region.

The Power Grid Corporation of India Limited has collaborated with ICRISAT to develop a scalable 'site of learning' to improve livelihoods of smallholders in a 2,500-ha area comprising 10 villages in Jaipatna block, Kalahandi district, Odisha, which is home to 8,500 people.

The watershed program, started in late October 2019, included planning and implementation of rainwater management interventions, soil health rejuvenation, improved crops/systems, nutri-gardens and livestock activities for women and fruit plantations for enhancing system productivity.

On-field Interventions

In an effort to bridge the yield gap between farmers of this region and those at the national level, efforts were first focused on efficient rainwater management and soil rejuvenation, along with improved cropping management (<https://dx.doi.org/10.1079/9781786394514.0021> - <https://youtu.be/Pl0fMQd7Jk>).

On-farm rainwater storage solutions are an important component towards drought-proofing, crop production intensification and diversification (<http://drylandsystems.cgiar.org/outcome-stories/small-ponds-make-big-progress-among-farmers-india>). So far, in 2020, 32 farm-ponds have been constructed in 7 of the 10 villages. In the present COVID-19 outbreak situation, these ponds will give farmers easy access to water so that they can continue agricultural activities without any constraints.

Ensuring soil health

Soil health mapping of the watershed villages showed widespread soil degradation and low soil organic carbon levels. Around 37% of the farmers' fields were low in soil organic carbon, indicating nitrogen deficiency as well. Upon further investigation, deficiencies in phosphorus (49% of fields), sulphur (86%), zinc (53%) and boron (90%) were revealed. Based on the results, demonstrations were conducted during post-rainy season of 2019-20 in 226 farmers' fields with micro/

We believe all people have a right to nutritious food and a better livelihood.

ICRISAT works in agricultural research for development across the drylands of Africa and Asia, making farming profitable for smallholder farmers while reducing malnutrition and environmental degradation.

We work across the entire value chain from developing new varieties to agri-business and linking farmers to markets.
